Currently, research in KFU is conducted in the framework of twenty-seven major research directions. About half of them are focused on research in natural sciences, a third is devoted to humanities, and the quarter is interdisciplinary.

Research is carried out on the basis of hundred seven departments, fourteen faculties, three institutes, two branches, thirty-three research laboratories, five research and development sectors, two project groups.